

Blistering can occur after laser treatment and the affected area requires careful protection from friction while healing.

Full body mummification solves the friction problem while introducing severe mobility issues.