

Larger spot sizes can improve laser penetration and efficiency, provided that energy is managed to avoid unnecessary thermal injury.

Painting a grand mural with a tiny brush builds character but wastes the afternoon.