
Treating the skin too aggressively does not force the immune system to process the shattered ink faster.

Screaming for maximum power only works in televised tournaments.