
Once the person wakes the pain arrives late alongside swelling from multiple sites.

The delayed reality check always catches up by the time they reach the sidewalk.