

Artists require clear design reference and approximate dimensions before the appointment begins.

Observatory equipment is rarely included in standard studio overheads.