

A proper health screening requires full disclosure of systemic medications to accurately assess biological healing capacity.

The elephant requires a very large pocket.