
The theory suggests that continuous pressure from metal jewellery modulates pain pathways to reduce migraine frequency.

Installing a permanent hard reboot button on the side of the skull.