

Clients experiencing abnormal healing must seek medical guidance rather than attempting corrective touch up procedures.
The defensive barricade seemed like a reasonable customer service strategy.