

The extraordinarily low friction coefficient of acetal makes it highly comfortable for initial insertion.
Frictionless materials possess minds of their very own.