

Aging decreases dermal capillary density, resulting in slower wound healing and an extended inflammatory phase.
Patience is a virtue forced upon the elderly.