

Pigment spreads laterally over time as cells ingest the ink and die in a continuous relay cycle.

Yelling at your immune system will not make it drop the ink.