

Exposure to allergens through a fresh piercing occurs through a compromised skin barrier, necessitating stricter material selection.

The microscopic burglar was severely underprepared for the bank vault.