
A fresh piercing exposes jewelry to a compromised barrier rather than intact skin, a situation demanding stricter material selection.

The fortress gates were left wide open but the guards are still checking spelling on the guest list.