

Dermal capillary density decreases with age, resulting in significantly slower wound healing times.

Watching the scab dry is not an officially recognized hobby.