

Creep is driven by time and stress rather than temperature, making standard thermal aging tests irrelevant for predicting fit loss.

Gravity has patiently redesigned the retainer into a perfectly useless oval.