

New formatting rules dictate sans-serif typefaces, increased line spacing, and minimum text sizes based on the packaging volume.

A tragic end to the proud studio tradition of reading ingredient lists with a brass loupe.