

Changing a mixture formulation immediately ends any grace period for older stock of that product still in the supply chain.

Meaning adding a secret drop of lavender water suddenly turns the entire stockroom into a regulatory crime scene.