

Meeting the concentration restrictions for a specific set of chemical regulations does not automatically guarantee compliance with hazard classification rules.

Passing a driving test unfortunately does not grant permission to fly a helicopter.