

Polypropylene polymers cannot leach metal ions because they are constructed entirely of carbon and hydrogen.

The village blacksmith finds modern plumbing deeply offensive.