
Mineral sunscreen particles remain entirely on the skin surface to reflect and scatter ultraviolet photons.

Accidental blindness is a small price to pay for pristine ink.