

Proteins in latex share a similar structure with proteins in bananas and avocados causing the immune system to cross-react.

The guacamole has the right to remain silent.