

A healed tattoo undergoes continuous dermal remodelling for many months, making its initial summer the period of highest vulnerability to photodegradation.

Eldest children receive less coddling than a fresh forearm sleeve in July.