
Ultraviolet radiation transfers enough energy to cleave chemical bonds in vibrant organic pigments.

Catching escaping molecules requires exceptionally good reflexes.