

Nickel sensitisation is cumulative meaning every exposure increases the likelihood of the immune system triggering a future reaction.

The allergy jar is now officially full.