
A permanent tattoo places pigment into the dermis through repeated needle penetration.

The immune system actively resents your fast food choices.