

Friction points on coated jewellery wear down quickly, exposing the raw titanium substrate beneath.

Sid fought the establishment by aggressively grinding his barbell until he reached shiny metal.

