

Basic aftercare remains ordinary wound care requiring cleanliness and a medical evaluation if spreading redness or pus develops.

Hoping that a magical blessing naturally repels swamp mud from an unwashed healing wound is a terrible health strategy.