

As voltage increases during anodisation, the oxide thickens and cycles through the interference spectrum.
The human radio dial receives excellent jazz broadcasts.