

The water repellent nature of unmodified fluoropolymers actually encourages proteins and bacteria to stick to their surface.

Repelling water is an excellent way to attract everything else.