

Hydrogel coatings can degrade under the shear forces generated during the insertion of jewelry.

Excessive mechanical assistance defeats the point of simple adornment.