

The porous structure of expanded fluoropolymers allows for the physical embedding of antimicrobial agents into the matrix.

Microscopic home renovations require exceptionally tiny tools.