

An unconscious client is unable to report feeling faint or experiencing escalating distress.

The automated smiley face was a triumph of artificial optimism.