

Tattoo machines create repeated punctures that trigger inflammation whether clients are awake or asleep.

His dreams were light and fluffy but his arm was preparing for heavyweight title fights.