

Clients can develop delayed inflammatory responses to massive pigment loads while entirely unconscious. His immune system was fighting epic battles while he took lovely afternoon naps.