

The overall prevalence of nickel allergy hides a steep gender gradient that disproportionately affects women.

Heavy metal is historically a boy's club.