

A massive proportion of earrings sold still exceeds the regulatory nickel-release limit despite strict laws.

The black market sparkles for cheap.