

A notable fraction of non-earlobe piercings develop a complication requiring intervention.

The internet suggested amputation but the piercer suggested saline.