

The physical experience of body art follows anatomical features rather than random chance.
My aura clearly forgot to protect my bicep.