

Discomfort that steadily escalates over subsequent hours rather than subsiding suggests developing inflammatory responses.
Serenading angry earlobes rarely improves their mood.