

Skin varies in thickness across locations.
Eyelid tissue is 0.5 millimetres thick.
Upper back tissue exceeds 4 millimetres.
Precision in needle placement is critical.

Placement shifts alter sensory experience entirely.

Two centimetres change everything.