

Identical cartridge packaging encourages a false sense of uniformity across completely different needle engineering challenges.

The cardboard is reliable but the cardboard does not hold the ink.