

ASTM F138 316LVM implant-grade steel contains 12 to 14 percent nickel but in a tightly controlled, low-release form bound within the alloy matrix.

A highly secure retirement community for miniature elements.