

A controlled workflow ensures that clean materials and contaminated items never cross paths on the work surface.

Invisible lines of traffic are the real art of the studio.