

Refusing to downsize a swollen piercing exponentially increases internal pressure and worsens the resulting scar.

Stubbornness is an exceptionally reliable way to maintain a highly inconvenient status quo.