The tissue needs four to eight weeks at minimum to stabilise before the next stretch.

Doing absolutely nothing is a heavily underrated skill.