
Excess pressure bunches the inner lining.

Scar tissue peels away inside.

The fistula is a healed tube.

Lining extrudes out the back.

A visible collar sits behind jewellery.

This is a mechanical structural injury.

A blowout is the mechanical extrusion of the fistula lining.
It is not an infection.