

A blowout occurs when the healed tissue tunnel is forced beyond its available capacity. The laws of physics politely decline to negotiate.