

Feeling tenderness or warmth when pressing the lobe indicates active tissue remodeling is still happening.

A glowing earlobe is a poor substitute for a kitchen stove.