

Warm weather increases peripheral blood flow but the underlying enzyme-driven tissue remodeling process remains unchanged.

Enzymes remain blissfully unaware of beach season.