

Forcing an expansion with tapered tools causes significantly more tissue damage than allowing heavier jewellery to gently stretch the piercing.

Allowing gravity to do the heavy lifting while you take a nap is the ultimate strategy.